Benefits of Receivership

- Lender gains swift control of operations and funds.
- State or federal courts react to a movant's application or petition for the appointment of a Receiver in a short period of time, as opposed to lengthy foreclosure proceedings.
- Lender has a vehicle to monetize non-performing loans without having been part of the chain of ownership, which reduces liability issues via receivership sale.
- Lender gets a clear window into operations of their collateral issue before taking further action.
- Even if a foreclosure is inevitable, Receivership gives Lender a chance to "look before it leaps," including evaluating areas such as: environmental conditions, life safety issues, and inflexible payables (including utility bills).
- Lender avoids exposing itself to persistent or aggressive creditors as an available "deep pocket," which could accompany foreclosure.
- Move for Receivership does not require Lender to give up its foreclosure rights.
