

Biography:

JORDAN JOHNSON - MBA ASSOCIATE

vCard

Jordan Johnson leverages his diverse background and experience in a variety of roles and functions, including equity research and analysis, emerging technology, and alternative investments. In addition to his role as a consultant for businesses in those fields, he assists companies with their initial rounds of seed funding, and is called in by various angel investor groups as a subject matter expert during their due-diligence phases to onboard new companies. He is also actively involved in the incubation and acceleration phases for startups seeking assistance with company valuations and financial forecasts, business plan development, investment pitch decks, and other corporate presentations.

Jordan recently graduated with honors from Chapman University's Argyros School of Business as an MBA student with an emphasis in Finance. While at Chapman, he and his teams won the ACG Cup M&A Case Competition during both years of the program. He also was the editor of the 2015 Investment Review, and won first place in the CFA Research Challenge as part of the Janes Financial Center Residency Program in both 2015 and 2016. He was chosen to receive the Financial Executives International Award for Excellence in 2015, as well as the Argyros School Continuing MBA Scholarship for Outstanding Performance and Leadership in the Program during his second and final year as an MBA Candidate. He is currently studying for his Series 79, and will be taking Level I of the CFA Exam in December.
