Steven Prager joined GlassRatner in April of 2015 as an Associate in the Atlanta office. Steven completed the GlassRatner internship program in the summer of 2014 where his background in economics and finance enabled him to enjoy a successful internship while working on valuation, due diligence and litigation support matters.

Since joining GlassRatner, Steven has worked on multiple engagements including:

- Provided relevant financial advisory services as part of the team that was financial advisor to the Unsecured Creditor's Committee for the AstroTurf bankruptcy. The sale of AstroTurf was ultimately approved by the Georgia Bankruptcy court as part of a $92.5 million deal that included non-bankrupt companies owned by AstroTurf's parent.
- Provided risk assessment and mitigation consulting services in an on-going management consulting and process review engagement for a government-sponsored enterprise active in the multifamily secondary mortgage market
- Performed due diligence consulting services including quality of earnings analysis and assessment of accounting controls/systems of a telecommunications company for the specialty lending group of a fortune 100 company
- Provided financial advisory services to a distressed marketing & advertising agency in Atlanta, Georgia; monitored cash flow projections in addition to preparing a proposed repayment schedule for the client
- Performed valuation and litigation support services for a distressed CRCC Nursing Care Facility in Alabama
- Performed valuation services for a broker/dealer and registered investment advisor firm in the Greater Atlanta Metro Area
- Performed litigation and forensic accounting support on several ongoing litigation matters in a variety of industries

Steven graduated from the University of Texas at Austin with a degree in Economics and a minor in Finance.
